

Core values and identity

Our five core values provide the foundation for how we operate:

Trust: being open to each other and to the unknown

Connectedness: treating each other with love, care and respect

Getting to know people: discovering what makes people tick and understanding what motivates them

Dedication: a commitment to provide all of our pupils with the best education

Attention: allowing each person to develop a sense of what is important in life

Identity

Religious development occupies an important place at all of our schools. Thinking about life helps pupils discover more about their inner selves. It inspires them to understand and assimilate the important values in life. Each school is special and is given the opportunity to develop its own policies with regard to identity: an identity that matches with the team, the history of the school and the school's population.
